Sinopsis Novel 5 cm Karya Donny Dhirgantoro Novel ini bercerita tentang 5 sahabat yang sebenarnya anak baik-baik. Mereka adalah Arial, Riani, Zafran, Ian, dan Genta. Sekalipun anak baik-baik, mereka tetap saja gemar khilaf.

la di sini sekarang, perjalanan pulang setelah Mahameru—Perjalanan Hati—puncak tertinggi Jawa, dan segala tengangnya. Alih pandanginya sekarang melihat jendela kereta Matarmaja yang melaju membawanya pulang menuju Jakarta. Pejaman mata dan tarikan nafasnya, seakan mencoba menjawab segala pertanyaan besar yang terus memenuhi benaknya semenjak kemarin Ranu Kumbolo hilang dari pandangannya. Pertanyaan-pertanyaan yang bukan dari siapa-siapa, tetapi dari dirinya sendiri. Teruntuk yang tidak lain adalah diriku sendiri... Zafran, manusia paling idealis, humanis, dan fantastis... Manusia paling keren di tongkrongan ini... Sebenarnya, untuk siapa kamu melakukan semua yang ingin kamu lakukan di dunia ini? Untuk kebahagiaan diri kamu? Atau untuk kebahagiaan orang lain? Apakah kamu seorang manusia yang hanya hidup untuk ngabis-ngabisin waktu aja? Celingak-celinguk, berbagi tanah, air, dan udara, namun tanpa tujuan. Menjadi manusia hanya untuk menuh-menuhin bumi, ngabisin airnya, ngabisin oksigennya. Hanya menjadi seongkok daging yang bisa berbicara, berjalan, dan punya nama—tanpa punya makna? Apakah kamu telah menjalani hidup yang kamu mau? Hidup yang kamu inginkan? Bukan yang orang lain inginkan dari kamu? Apakah kamu mencintai diri kamu sendiri? Apakah ada seseorang yang kamu cintai, lebih dari kamu mencintai diri kamu sendiri? Adakah cintamu yang terbalas? Atau mungkin tak terbalas? Atau ada yang begitu mencintaimu, tapi kamu tidak bisa membalasnya. Pernahkah kamu mengalami kesedihan yang luar biasa dalam hidup kamu? Pernahkah kamu mengalami kebahagiaan yang luar biasa dalam hidup kamu? Apakah kamu hidup dalam ketakutan-ketakutan kamu? Atau dalam harapan-harapan kamu? Apa yang harus kamu perbuat? Zafran termenung sejenak, namun beban pertanyaan yang baru saja menghunjam itu terasa ringan saat di bangku kereta, tak jauh darinya, ia melihat Genta, Riani, Ian, Arial, dan Dinda tersenyum kepadanya.

Five friends have been friends for seven years...

Seno Gumira Ajidarma is a master storyteller who can capture a sentiment-fear, perplexity, heartache, stubbornness, pride-and weave it into a chain of events that unravel as comedy or heartbreaking tragedy.

Brings together leading and emerging scholars from Asia, North America and Australia to develop new perspectives on the key issues in contemporary Asian cultural and media studies.

In the early 20th century, the Dutch East Indies was a colony in flux. Greater access to education meant an increasingly literate financial elite and, thus, a burgeoning literary industry. The lower class, meanwhile, found its entertainment in stage performances—oral literature often loosely adapted from famous novels. The film industry itself was attempting to find a successful formula, and in its early years faced heavy competition from the theatre. Educated women called for women ’ s rights and protection of women ’ s welfare as the economy began to transform from one based on the production of raw goods to one based on manufacturing. In this turbulent background, the social act of adapting films from novels emerged. This phenomenon began in 1927 with the adaptation of Eulis Aljih by G. Krugers and ended in 1942—before the Japanese occupation—with the adaptation of Siti Noerbaaja by Lie Tek Swie. A total of eleven films were adapted from eight novels in the Indies. Only one author had multiple works adapted, and two novels were adapted more than once. The nine producers and directors involved in adapting novels came from a variety of ethnicities. The works adapted, meanwhile, were generally popular in wide society—though often best known through stage performances and adaptations. The adaptation process from this period has been little understood, yet important for understanding the history of screen adaptations, which are quickly becoming the most lucrative type of film in Indonesia. This exciting new contribution sheds light on the obscure history of film adaptation in Indonesia and lays the groundwork for further research. [UGM Press, UGM, Gadjah Mada University Press]

Lima anak muda bersahabat selama tujuh tahun, harapan membawa mereka mencapai puncak tertinggi.

Published in Indonesia in 2005, The Rainbow Troops, Andrea Hirata's closely autobiographical debut novel, sold more than five million copies, shattering records. Now it promises to captivate audiences around the globe. Ikal is a student at the poorest village school on the Indonesian island of Belitung, where graduating from sixth grade is considered a remarkable achievement. His school is under constant threat of closure. In fact, Ikal and his friends—a group nicknamed the Rainbow Troops—face threats from every angle: skeptical government officials, greedy corporations hardly distinguishable from the colonialism they've replaced, deepening poverty and crumbling infrastructure, and their own low self-confidence. But the students also have hope, which comes in the form of two extraordinary teachers, and Ikal's education in and out of the classroom is an uplifting one. We root for him and his friends as they defy the island's powerful tin mine officials. We meet his first love, the unseen girl who sells chalk from behind a shop screen, whose pretty hands capture Ikal's heart. We cheer for Lintang, the class's barefoot math genius, as he bests the students of the mining corporation's school in an academic challenge. Above all, we gain an intimate acquaintance with the customs and people of the world's largest Muslim society. This is classic storytelling in the spirit of Khaled Hosseini's The Kite Runner: an engrossing depiction of a milieu we have never encountered before, bursting with charm and verve.

"Alif had never set foot outside of West Sumatra. He passed his childhood days searching for fallen durian fruit in the jungle, playing soccer on rice paddies, and swimming in the blue waters of Lake Maninjau. His mother wants him to attend an Islamic boarding school, a pesantren, while he dreams of public high school. Halfheartedly, he follows his mother ’ s wishes. He finds himself on a grueling three-day bus ride from Sumatra to Madani Pesantren (MP) in a remote village on Java. On his first day at MP, Alif is captivated by the powerful phrase man jadda wajada. He who gives his all will surely succeed. United by punishment, he quickly becomes friends with five boys from across the archipelago, and together they become known as the Fellowship of the Manara. Beneath the mosque ’ s minaret, the boys gaze at the clouds on the horizon, seeing in them their individual dreams of far-away lands, like America and Europe. Where would these dreams take them? They didn ’ t know. What they did know was: never underestimate dreams, no matter how high they may be. God truly is The Listener. The Land of Five Towers is the first book in a trilogy written by A. Fuadi—a former TEMPO & VOA reporter, photography buff, and a social entrepreneur. He went to George Washington University and Royal Holloway, University of London for his masters. A portion of the royalties from the trilogy are intended to build Komunitas Menara, a volunteer-based social organization which aims to provide free schools, libraries, clinics and soup kitchens for the less fortunate.
